'OTTO HEUSLER, 66, LANGHORNE R. D., DIES 2 HOURS AFTER HIS AUTOMOBILE HITS CAR OF A NEWPORTVILLE MAN

Victim Suffers Fractured Skull and Fails to Regain Consciousness — Henry J. Kirchoff, Newportville, Pushing His Stalled Car, Saves Own Life by Leaping to side of Highway Seconds Before Crash.

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18—Otto Heusler, 66, Myrtle ave., (Siles), Langhorne R. D. 3, died in Nazareth Hospital this morning, two hours after his automobile crashed into a disabled vehicle on Roosevelt Boulevard in Philadelphia.

Heusler incurred a fractured skull in the mishap and never regained consciousness.

Henry J. Kirchoff, of Fairview avenue, Newportville, who was pushing the stalled car, probably saved his own life by leaping to the side of the highway mere seconds before the crash.

Kirchoff told police he was enroute home when his car broke down. He got out and began shoveling when he suddenly heard Heusler's car approaching.

Kirchoff said he glanced quickly over his shoulder and saw the other vehicle only a few feet away from him and roaring straight in his direction.

Kirchoff jumped quickly to the side of the road, but his car was driven across the center island and into another traffic lane, a distance of some 40 feet.

You Can't Even Trust "The Law"

(By "The Stroller")

The FBI is known for its ability to ferret out information and track down criminals. But a certain Bristol borough councilman doesn't think much of the FBI instructors or their class members (whichever are to blame) for tracking down a box of chocolates which he had cached.

It appears that the councilman in question had purchased a box of sweets to present to a lady friend. He placed the box in his desk in the borough council chamber, intending to pick it up at the meeting of council this week.

But in the meantime the FBI classes were held there, and the box was gone. The councilman is considering what authorities he should put on the trail of the FBI and the pupils, many of whom are Bristol police officers.

Pennsylvania has a cigarette tax of four cents a pack. Delaware has none. Hence the Keystone state has the well-known problem of collecting the tax on cigarettes that come in by mail or otherwise.

Corporations are finding other and presumably better things to do with the profits than to pass them along to the Johnny (or Jane) who put up the capital to start the business in the first place. There are always sinking funds, refinancing programs, capital expenditures, building pools, to eat into these profits. Recently, many corporations have found a new means to absorb profits before they fall into the hands of the stock-holders whose money earned them. Many elaborate retirement funds are being created out of earnings which, if the stock-holder dares think about the matter, he could easily decide really belong to him.

Stock-trading has become a cumbersome, complicated business, full of pitfalls and special annoyances. Uncle Sam knocked the bottom out of the margin business. That was supposed to stabilize and strengthen the stock market — but Wall Street has had worse jitters since these "controls" than it did before.

If a stock-holder comes to believe that his securities are selling too high for their true value, and wants to go "short" instead of "long", a whole new set of annoyances and hazards await him. Some of these are legal, and some moral hazards.

In the first place, the act of selling short has ceased to be the simple matter which it formerly was — and which, indeed, it has to be in any "free" market worth the name. The man who sells short becomes that frightful and ominous character, a "bear", open to the accusation of pessimism and defeatism, and very likely, if he is correct in his judgment, to be accused of bringing about the decline which he foresees.

Every "bear" transaction on the Stock Exchange of any consequence in the last several years has promptly been "investigated" by youthful experts who, it may be, wouldn't know a stop-order from a coupon bond.

There are those who openly say that the persistent hounding of the stock-holder, for the past generation is part of a deliberate scheme to discourage him, beat him down, and drive him out of the investment field — so that the bureaucrats can take over and set this nation up as a Socialist State.

Whether deliberate or not, it is certainly having that effect. Venture capital is drying up. Possible profits have become negligible. The game isn't worth the candle. If you lose, it's your loss; but if you win, it's Uncle Sam's profit!

What this means is that the one really great era of prosperity and opportunity in American history is drawing to its close. The goose that laid the golden eggs for past generations is being led to the slaughter-block.

That's what the Pennsylvania sleuths have been doing. The story is that plainclothes men in cars have been spying on buyers and then radioing to confederates across the line who then stop the cars with great self-assurance. Delaware storekeepers and their customers don't like it.

PARTY LINE MANNERS

A party line is better than no telephone at all, but perhaps a resident of Cincinnati, O., whose residence was razed by fire will have some reservations.

When he discovered the fire he rushed to the telephone to report it. He was a party line subscriber, and it is not surprising that he found the line was busy. He was certainly within his rights demanding a clear line, as he did, but it was all in vain. The other party on the line kept up a placid flow of conversation. Firemen arrived in time to watch the roof fall in.

The occurrence emphasizes the moral responsibilities a modern civilization imposes on everyone. How we conduct ourselves on the telephone, or in the driver's seat of a car, or on a crowded sidewalk, is an excellent indication of our good sense, good manners and maturity.

Which is not to advocate regimented subservience. The bus rider who pays for a seat and can hardly squeeze into the door of the vehicle day after day is not a good American if he endures the imposition without at least attempting to do something about it.

Pity The Poor Stockholder!

Some became rich by stock-trading, but others grew equally rich by buying the right thing and holding it. Everyone knows case after case in which the original investors saw initial capital measured in hundreds of dollars soar into fabulous fortunes.

In those days, Uncle Sam let anyone who hit the jackpot keep most of his profits. The idea that what a man made by his work, or investment, or speculation, really belonged to the community; that there was something immoral about trying to gain money by honest means — these concepts were recognized for what they really are: socialism.

When losses occurred, individuals suffered — but the community was only slightly affected. Neither the economy nor the finances of the national government was involved. The losses didn't get transferred over to the public taxes. Neither did they threaten to bankrupt the country.

Times have changed. The stock-holder, man who built the nation, enriched it, made it powerful, today is treated like a poor relation. If he loses, he's sneered at. If he wins — but, by the former standards, he can't win! Every hand is against him.

The mere fact of owning stocks is likely to be considered, in some circles, a social disgrace. It is taken as a form of exploitation. The culprit is likely, at any time, to be branded with such stigma as "vested interest," "capitalist," "malefactor of great wealth," etc., etc.

The social hero of today seems to be the man who spends all he gets as fast as he gets it. At least, if our political structure is geared to anything, it is geared to that type of personal financing.

State, county and Federal tax-collectors are all waiting for a cut of whatever dividends might go to the stockholder. They tax these profits before he gets them, after he gets them, and again when he spends them. He buys stock with hundred-cent dollars, and finds the dollars worth only fifty cents when he sells — but he pays an income tax on the "profits" of this transaction. Dividends, when they come along, but only half what the dollars bought when he acquired his stock.

Corporations are finding other and presumably better things to do with the profits than to pass them along to the Johnny (or Jane) who put up the capital to start the business in the first place. Each of the girls affiliated with the youth choir of Neshaminy Methodist Church, who attended the Valentine party in the church social hall Tuesday evening, was costumed to represent the title of a song. A pleasant period was passed as 13 members endeavored to guess the songs represented; and games were played, with prizes offered those who won. Ice cream and heart-decked cup cakes were served. A large old fashioned bouquet of flowers and a miniature bride doll graced the table. Favors were red and white corsages.

"ARMY" PREPARES FOR ITS '49 FUND DRIVE

Determined To Maintain Unbroken Record of Always Achieving Quota

THE GOAL IS $750,000

The Salvation Army, determined to maintain an unbroken record of never having failed to achieve its quota, took its first step Monday in preparation for the 1949 maintenance fund drive.

Campaign Headquarters were opened in the Commercial Trust Building, South Penn Square, Philadelphia, with brief ceremonies attended by William W. Rhoads, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer of the Reading Railroad; Campaign General Chairman: Lt. Colonel A. Edgar Arkett, Salvation Army and campaign officials.

Featuring the ceremony was the presentation to Mr. Rhoads of several articles of handicraft made by children of The Salvation Army's Lehigh Recreation Center, 11th and Huntingdon streets, Phila. The presentation was made by Janet McDonough, 9; Thomas Lehrman, 10, and Thomas Kortomic, 12, all of Philadelphia.

Mr. Rhoads announced that the 1949 goal will be $750,000, the same as in the past four years, although he pointed out, living costs have increased sharply and The Salvation Army has expanded its activities. "We were able to hold this year's quota to the 1945 total of $750,000 primarily because of the fine management of funds previously contributed by Salvation Army officials and the efficient operation of its many services."

Since last year, three new agencies have been started, bringing to 35 the total number supported by funds contributed to the drive. They are: The Brown Street Recreation Center, 1334 Brown Street, which provides planned recreation and instruction for more than 2500 children a week; the Darby Corps, 22 N. 9th Street, Darby, and the League of Mercy, which now handles all hospital and institutional visitation work for the "Army" in this area.

"While the "Army" has not increased its quota, it is absolutely essential that the quota be attained in view of great increased costs," Rhoads declared. "What The Salvation Army is asking this year is the absolute minimum required to support its 35 agencies in this area."

TOWNSHIP JUNIORS SCORE 14 IN LAST PERIOD TO WIN

Fourteen points in the final period enabled the Bristol Township Junior High contingent to defeat the Langhorne Junior High five, 22-14, yesterday afternoon on the Rohm and Haas court.

Langhorne finished ahead of the Township in the first half, 8-6, and also were leading in the third quarter. But in the finale, Township began to cut the cords repeatedly and scored the points which gave them the triumph. "Pete" Wickert led the last period scoring with seven points.

In the other game played, the Langhorne Junior Varsity beat the Township Junior Varsity squad by a 37-24 count. Langhorne was ahead at the first quarter, 8-4, and increased it to 16-12 at half-time.

Wednesday night, Township's Junior Varsity team won over Pennsbury's Junior Varsity, 43-28, with Harry Eisenbrey scoring 16 points.

WARRIORS TO TRY TO WIN FINAL LEAGUE GAME HERE

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBRESON

Meeting . . . next Tuesday, (Washington's Birthday) at 8 p.m., the Edgely Rod & Gun Club will meet at the Headley Manor Fire Station. It will be the first meeting this year to be presided over by newly-elected president Howard Blinifffe, and I'm certain he will welcome a good turnout of members and interested sportsmen.

Scores . . . Bill Quinn, one of Edgely's ace shooters, cleaned up at the bluerock target shoot of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association last Sunday when he was tied in the 25-yard, 16-yard matches.

Thirty-nine shooters participated in the events, blasting away at targets. Other scores in the main event included: J. King, 23; S. Popkin, 22; E. Ely, 21; J. Lynn, 20; R. Elberson, 20; W. Bessler, 19.

About fishing . . . State Fish Warden Harry Cole stopped by the office Wednesday afternoon to say hello, and he told me he had just come from the Neshaminy Creek at Hulmeville. He said there were 15 men there fishing for suckers when he left. Two of them had suckers, and a third angler landed a fish while he was watching.

This is the first time, to Harry's recollection, that this species of fish has been taken from this section of the Creek.

Competition . . . next Wednesday evening, beginning at 6:45, eight members of the tournament casting division of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will be matching their skills against 18 of the top casting teams in the east, when they cast at the New York Sportsmen Show, Grand Central Palace, New York City.

Bristol has a good chance to take top honors, with such men as Ollie Hobbs (captain of the team), former national bait casting champion, and Bill Durr, Middle Atlantic States' half casting champ. Other members of the Bristol aggregation include: George Effing, Arnold North, Joseph Smith, Kenneth Brandau, Homer Hobbs and Harold Workman.

Legislation . . . here is an interesting piece of proposed legislation which has found its way into the bill hopper at the current session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg . . . it is House Bill No. 388, and it would amend the Game Laws by increasing the limitation upon the bounty that may be paid, by action of the Game Commission, for foxes, from $1.00 to $10.00 for each fox. A maximum of $10.00 could be paid under this bill for each fox killed in Pennsylvania. The bill is now in the Committee on Game and Forestry.

More scores . . . here are the eight top scores in the bluerock shoot held on the trap grounds of the Newportville Rod & Gun Club last Sunday afternoon: M. Cave, 24; W. Doran, 23; H. Kauffman, 20; R. Brady, 20; S. Fern, 20; L. Brandy, 20; T. Bennett, and D. New, 18.

Another open shoot is scheduled by the Club for this Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m. All shooters are welcome.

LOCAL MARKSMAN GETS FIRM GRIP ON FIRST PLACE

Sharpshooter George Walker, high point man in the current rifle & pistol shoots of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association held each week in the Burlington Armory, regained undisputed possession of first place in the rifle division when he scored a 96 out of a possible 100 Wednesday evening in the fifth round of the current series.

Last week Walker was topped by his understudy, Bob Robinson but the best Robinson could do Wednesday night was to share second spot with 4 other shooters, all with 93's.

Teen-age J. Laidacker held firm his first-place spot in the pistol section when he turned in the high score of 73. S. Popkin was trailing five points behind with a 68.

Leading rifle scores included: G. Walker, 96; R. Robinson, 93; S. Popkin, 93; G. Duffy, 93; S. Fama, 92; E. Stackhouse, 93; J. Laidacker, 92, and J. Higbee, 91.

The Hibernians will be battling to hold its position in the circuit. A triumph for the Hibs will put them in a deadlock with St. Ann's for third place and should Fifth Ward also win, the three teams will be tied for the post.

Manager Peter Harkins will use Rodgers, Donnelly, Quigley, Elmer, and McDevitt in his starting lineup, while Fred Barbetta will have Malloy, Stall, VanLenten, Natale, and Palumbo in his first five.

Sunday afternoon two games will be played on the Rohm & Haas court, Franklin playing Falls Alumni and Prot's lining up against Rohm & Haas.

FIFTH WARD CLUB TO OPPOSE HOOPERS

The Fifth Ward Sporting Club will try for its fifth straight win in the Bristol Basketball League tonight as it clashes with the Morrisville Hoopers in the nightcap of a twin-bill on the high school floor.

The first game, starting at 7:30 o'clock, brings together the Hibernians and St. Ann's.

Fifth Ward has beaten the Hibernians, Prot's, Franklin, and St. Ann's in succession and has lifted itself from the cellar to a deadlock for fourth place. The Wards have a chance to tighten its chances for a playoff spot by winning tonight.

Manager Eddie Carr will start the following: Joe Potena, "Chick" DiAngelo, Dick Mingin, Ed Mazzanti, and Francis Costantini.

Morrisville is in the midst of a bad losing streak, having lost its last five games. Manager Mickey Stradding has been side-lined with a foot injury but will use the following in his starting lineup:

Alelio, DeBronze, Harms, Keets, and Wilmoth.

NICETOWN FIVE TRIMS FRANKLIN BY SCORE OF 77-60

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18—Piling up a large margin in the first half, the Nicetown Boys Club trimmed the Franklin A. C. of the Bristol Suburban League, to the tune of a 77-60 score.

Franklin only scored 22 points in the first half while the Nicetown team rolled up 51. However, in the second half, Franklin came back strong and scored 38 points but the large first half difference was hard to overcome.

"Johnny" Centonze tried hard to close up the gap in the second half as he swished the cords for 11 field goals. "Moe" Caneo followed Centonze in scoring with 14 points.

"Bobby" McGeehan, formerly of Roman Catholic High, and Moore led the winners with "Jim" Malloy controlling the backboards at all times.

WARRIOR TO TRY TO WIN FINAL LEAGUE GAME HERE

Unbeaten in Lower Bucks County League competition since Coach Jerry Bloom took over the basketball helm, Bristol High will play its final league game of the 1948-49 campaign tonight when it stacks up against the Morrisville Bulldogs on the latter's floor. First game between the Junior Varsity teams of the schools will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

The Warriors have won 15 straight league contests, 10 last season and five this year. The circuit was composed of six teams last season, Buckingham and Southampton being included in the group. The locals are anxious to make a clean sweep in Coach Bloom's two years realm.

Bristol appeared at its best Tuesday night when it trimmed Palmyra and the same playing against Morrisville tonight will make things easier for their finale in league competition.

It will be "Jimmy" Sottille's final appearance in Lower Bucks County League basketball. Sottille scored 26 points against the Bulldogs in their last meeting and has been a scoring thorn against all the Lower Bucks schools. It will also be the final league game for "Ham" Konefal, Don DeLong, Jim Marshall, Val Bielecki, and Bob Bowen.

Coach Bloom has already started to build his squad for next season and has been using lower classmen quite frequently in recent games. Such players as Frankie Barbetta, Frank Rich, Vic Cauti, Paige Stewart, Marty Braam and Joe Pindar are improving so fast that some of the local fans claim that their passing is better than that of the starting five.

Coach Bloom is particularly proud of the foul-shooting mark of "Vic" Cauti. This junior has stepped to the foul line 14 times and has converted on 12 tries. Bristol has made 187 fouls in 350 tries.

To date, the Warriors have scored 748 points in 17 games with Sottille having 297 points to his credit and Konefal, 157. DeLong has come up fast lately to bring his total to 131. The entire squad has scored 283 fielders out of 937 attempts and has secured 700 rebounds off the boards. DeLong has 178 rebounds to his credit. The starting guards, Marshall and Bielecki, have not done much shooting, devoting their time to defensive playing.

Morrisville can deadlock the Lower Bucks loop by winning tonight and its final game with Pennsbury Tuesday night. The only loss in the league by Coach "Jim" Doherty's boys was at the hands of Bristol in their meeting in January.

Bristol is also pointing to the P. I. A. tournament which opens in March. The local school is the only Class A entrant in Lower Bucks County. Last season the Warriors beat West Chester on to lose to Norristown to be eliminated. Norristown went on to win the championship.

Bristol plays Bordentown High at Bordentown Monday night and closes its regular season next Friday night against Brown Prep on the home court.
